Embarking on a new career or job search is both exciting and challenging. To help you explore various options, the Education & Employment Information Center has compiled this list of popular websites and telephone hotlines. Two websites that can help you kick-off your search – the Department of Labor’s Let Us Help you get back to Work!, www.ctdol.state.ct.us/, and JobNow, an interactive resource to assist you with resume writing, interviewing and job search. Through their Adult Learning Center, on-line tutoring and Microsoft Office help is available. For a list of participating libraries, visit the Connecticut Library Consortium, www.ctlibrarians.org. In addition, many colleges and other agencies offer career planning workshops and courses, some of which are free. To learn more about these opportunities, call or email the Education & Employment Information Center, a statewide clearinghouse operated by the Connecticut Office of Financial and Academic Affairs for Higher Education.
